

Leader Relocations was a go between company to move my things from Dubai to the USA.

They are refusing to release my items for shipment to my home within the USA because they are having financial issues with the original company I booked with.

I paid up front for door-to-door service, so this issue with another relocation company is not my problem. To hold my items from being shipped because they cannot sort their own internal issues is not my problem.

So, my things are sitting in a warehouse in the USA now, collecting storage fees (which THEY will be responsible for paying for)

In fact, this is unethical and illegal. I will be filing a police report if they do not release my items soon.
